If you are traveling to another country, you will probably need to go the airport. Here is some basic information for the check-in counter. When you arrive at the airport, you will first need to go to the check-in counter. First, you will need to check-in your baggage and collect your boarding pass. You will also need to show your passport. After you have been checked-in, you will be given a boarding pass that shows the gate number, the boarding time, and your seat number. The check-in assistant will probably ask you if you packed the baggage yourself, and whether you have any fragile items in your bag. You are usually allowed to take some carry-on baggage on the airplane, but these bags have to be a certain size and weight.
